Foreword

We, in compiling this yearbook, hope that you will find it to be a pleasant and accurate record of life at Monticello High School during your 1964-1965 school year. We wish to express the appreciation of the students and the community of Allerton Park. This public showplace benefits us by serving as an educational and research center, as a forest and wild-life reserve, as an example of landscape architecture, and as a public park.

Replica of Rodin's "Adam" greets park visitors.

The regal architecture of the Allerton mansion attracts many visitors and conference guests.

The Buddhist Temple and the many forests add to the beauty of Allerton Park.

Picnic tables and the cool shade of the trees are inviting to many picnickers.

The lake provides recreation for campers.

Shrubbery enhances the beauty of the park.

In Memoriam

MR. ROBERT ALLERTON

1873 - 1964

Mr. Robert Allerton began his education at Harvard School in Chicago. He then entered St. Paul's at Concord, New Hampshire. In Europe, Mr. Allerton broadened his education further by studying at the Royal Academy in Munich, German, and at the Academy Julien in Paris, France. In 1896, he took up residence on what is known as "Allerton Park."

Humility would be the key word to characterize Mr. Allerton. His broad mindedness, great spirit of honesty, and love of youth were also outstanding traits of his life, not to mention his great generosity.

Art and education, were his main interests. It is said that art and landscape gardening were his life's work.

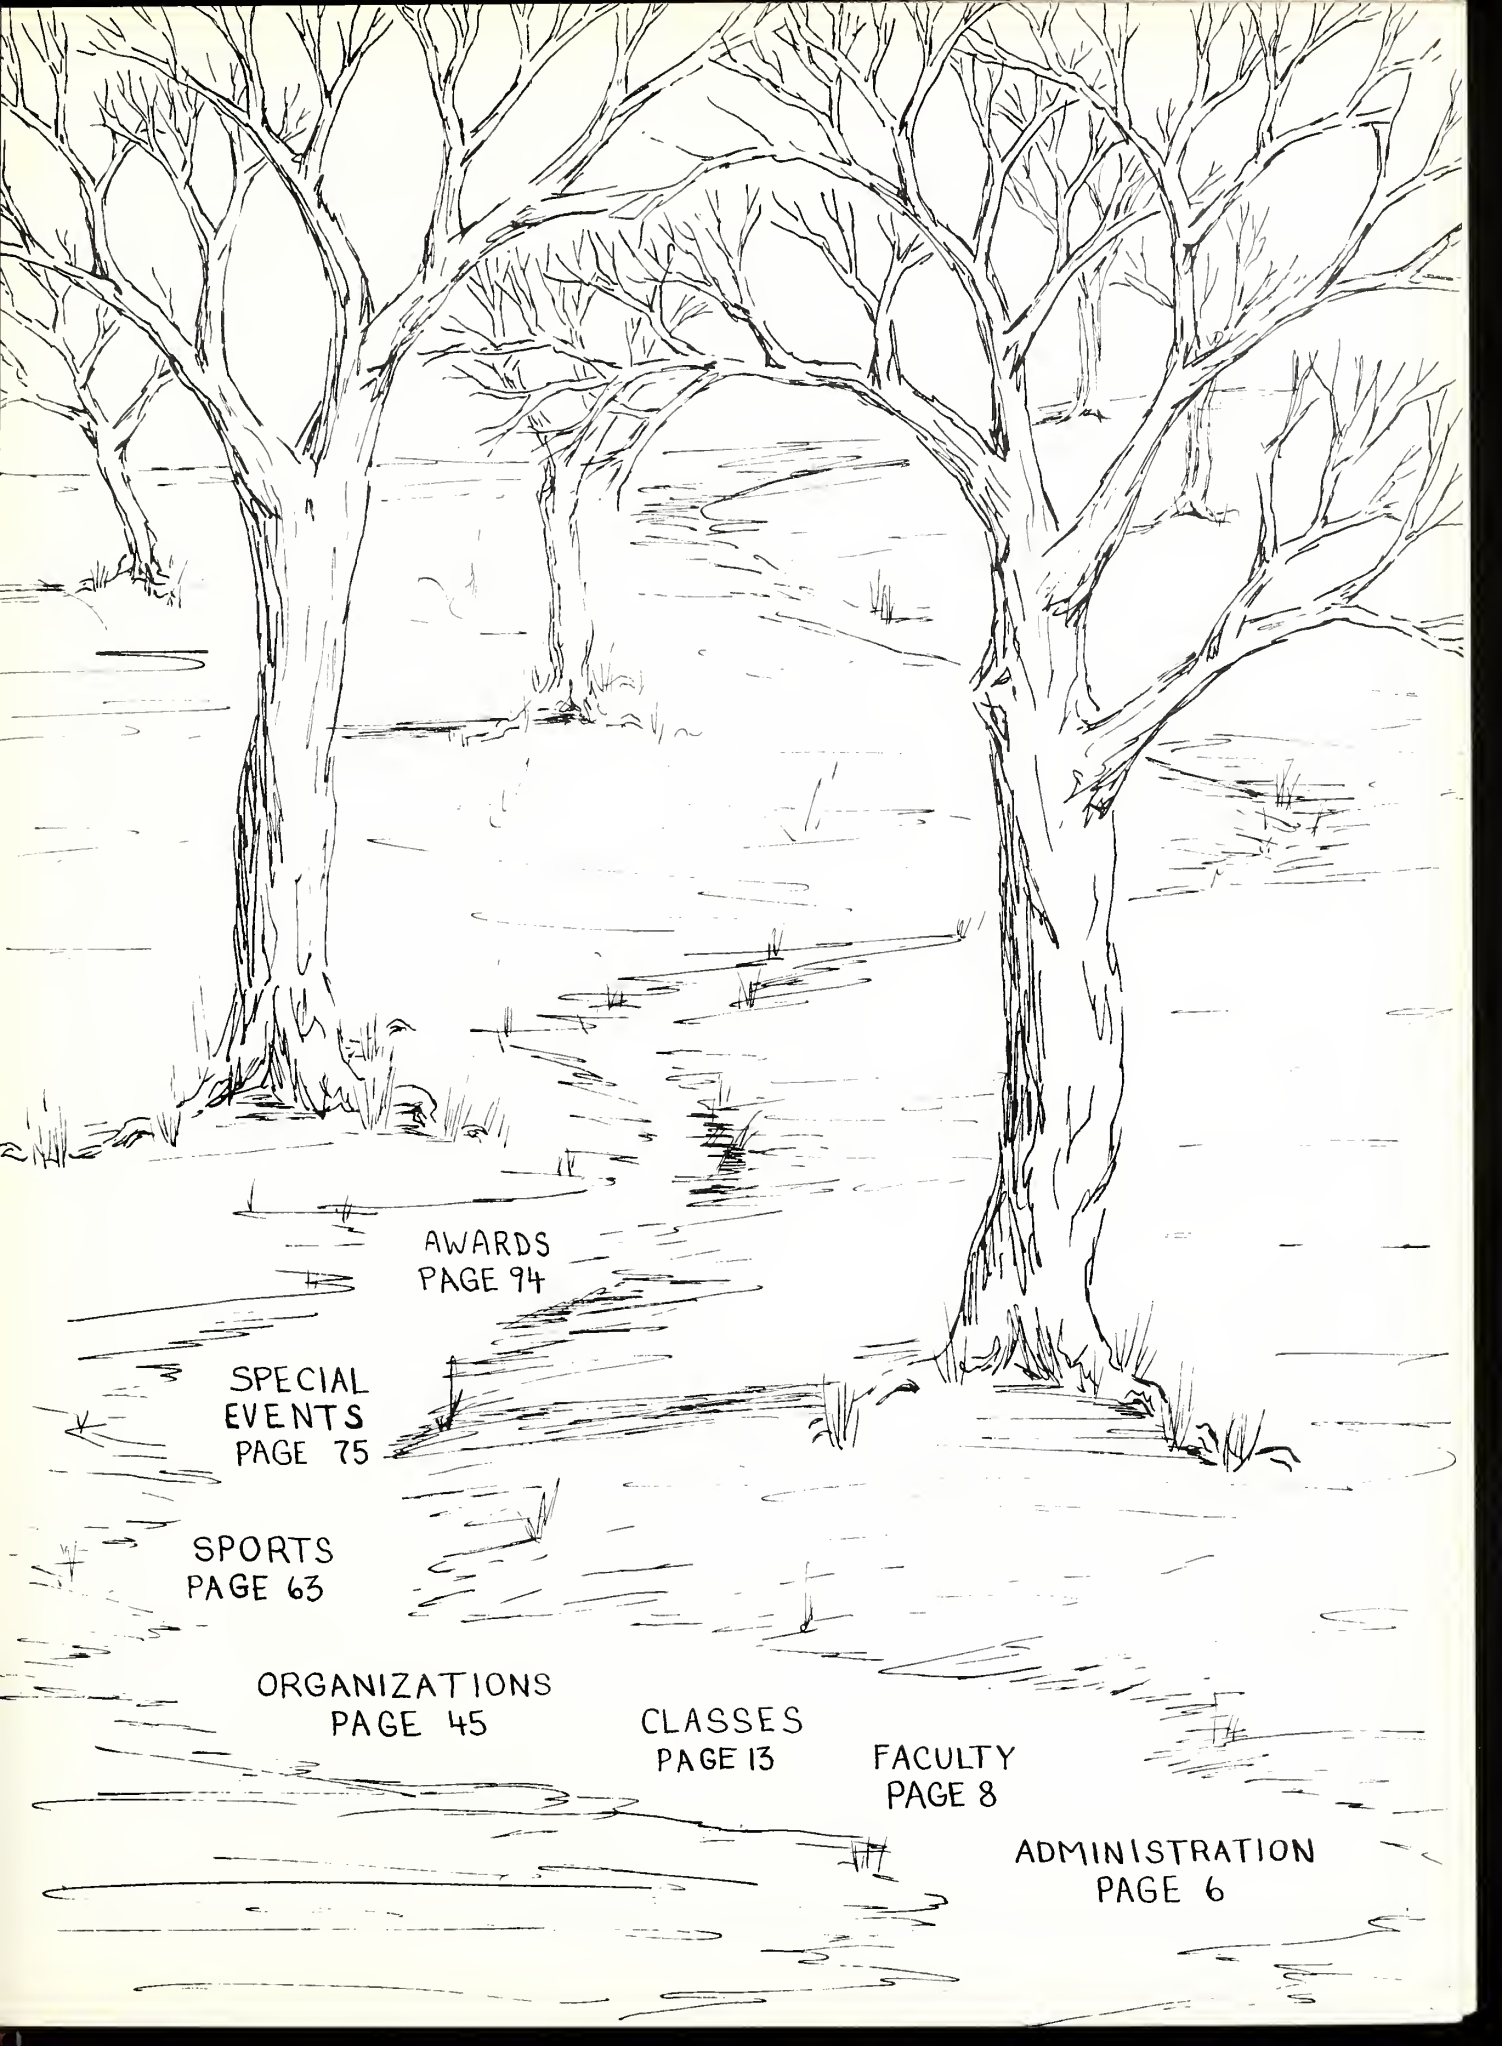

Mr. Allerton's knowledge of art and landscape gardening are illustrated well by his park in Monticello. He loved nature and wanted its great beauty to be preserved so that it could be enjoyed by all. To Monticello, he has brought many objects of art which people from near and far come to admire. He has helped broaden Monticello's culture and appreciation of art and nature. He greatly favored the 4-H camp at Allerton Park for he stated "Boys and girls from every section of the state will attend the camp. I hope they will find inspiration here and develop a keener appreciation of culture and beauty."

Education was of great concern to Mr. Allerton. In 1923, he was invited to serve on the University of Illinois Planning Board and continued to be interested in its development. In 1926, he was the donor of traveling scholarships in American Architecture. These awards consist of a summer's travel and study for two junior student architects who have the highest average in the University course in architectural history. This scholarship is still being given today. For senior architectural students he held an annual open house.

Mr. Allerton placed his farms in capable hands so that they might be gradually developed into top-producing farms. His policy has been conservation of the soil for future generations.

An extensive amount of Piatt County property has been placed in the hands of the University of Illinois. He has contributed to its art collection and has provided fellowship funds. In 1944, he offered to the University a deed to his estate near Monticello for educational and research purposes. This land is used as a forest, a wild-life and plant life reserve, as an example of landscape architecture, and as a public park. Mr. Robert Allerton, philanthropist and scholar, has done much to promote education and art appreciation to the people of the Monticello area.

We, the class of 1965, respectfully dedicate this annual to the memory of Mr. Robert Allerton in appreciation of his concern for beauty and for people.

Freshman

On September 1, 1964, at exactly 8:44 P. M. we freshmen started down the road which would lead us through high school. This path led us into many new and wonderful experiences.

At first, we "greenies" were bewildered by trying to find our classrooms. Within a few days, we found that our difficulties had begun to iron out and we could begin to concentrate on our studies.

Our very first special event was Homecoming. But this presented us with a new problem; constructing a float. We all combined our talents and our efforts to produce a replica of "Stone Age Sages."

We worked diligently on it every evening, but the final touch-ups were completed at the last minute. Although we didn't win a prize, we were very proud of our efforts.

Homecoming was not our only special event. Other special events included coke dances, the Christmas Dance, Spring Reversal, and some of the girls managed to go to prom.

Other events which weren't quite so pleasant were F. F. A. and F. H. A. initiations and semester exams. We managed to survive them, but promised to study harder next time.

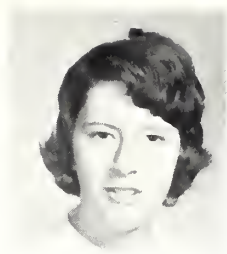

Our first year on the road in high school brought us much hard work and many exciting experiences. However, we are looking forward to the coming years when we will be upperclassmen!

Sophomores

Were we freshmen yesterday or was it the day before?! Time surely does fly! Remember how nervous we were the first day of school last year? This year, though, our poise was real and we had confidence to spare as we started over the bridge that fills the gap between underclassmen and the upperclassmen. The exciting year of 1964-65 will always linger in the minds of the class of '67. At the beginning we just couldn't imagine settling down to books and studying after a fun-filled summer. But after awhile we slipped back into the comfortable routine of high school.

Many warm fall evenings were spent preparing our pink "dinosaur with purple spots" for our entry in the Homecoming parade. Melinda Kratz, our class queen attendant, rode our dinosaur to victory, and we won first place, much to the dismay of the seniors!

The sophs tackled two class projects this year. During football season we were in charge of a concession stand for frosh-sophomore football game, and in November we sold Fuller Brush products. The earnings were put away for safe-keeping until next year's Junior-Senior Prom.

Christmas came and went and semesters rolled around. We really had some freshmen scared with tall tales about mid-year exams! Were they really tall tales after all?!

The days passed—and all too quickly! The Christmas Dance, Spring Reversal, Prom, and coke dances left us with many fond memories. Remember, as servers, how careful we were not to spill anything on any junior or senior?

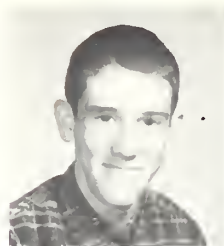

As the year came to a close we suddenly realized that we had crossed the bridge, and we had only two years left at M. H. S. The hardest part of the road was now ahead of us, but with the name "upperclassmen" to boost our morale, we felt that we could successfully finish high school.

Junior

The year of transition! As Juniors we could look back to our carefree sophomore days and ahead to the serious senior year. We started to think about what was waiting up ahead—what would be around that bend of the road for each of us. Our planning for the future started to take on a new aspect when we realized that next year we'd be facing the reality of the "cross-road" in life.

But our thoughts were not all serious! We were always able to fit into our busy schedules a little time for fun.

First came Homecoming—so soon!—with our first class effort being the Junior class float. Debby Rhodes, our class attendant, donned a leopard skin to really give a "Stone Age" atmosphere to our huge dinosaur egg. And for all our work we were awarded second place.

On November 17, our class play came off with a big romantic bang with "Jenny Kissed Me". Incidentally "Jenny" (Margaret White) got around to kissing almost everyone in the cast!

After the play cast had settled back into its regular schedule, the class turned to serious thoughts of money-making schemes for the Junior-Senior Prom. Selling Christmas cards and tireless work at concession stands after each home game brought our funds to a safe amount. But the work was worth it! Prom was a complete success.

Last but not least came those beautiful class rings!! Pennies were hoarded until ordering day—then everyone waited in a state of blissful anticipation until — AT LAST!!

Yes, this truly is "the year that was . . ."

Seniors

We seniors have come to one of the crossroads of life. We have many paths ahead of us from which we must choose our future lives. We may enter the adult worlds of marriage or work, or we may further our educations in colleges or business schools.

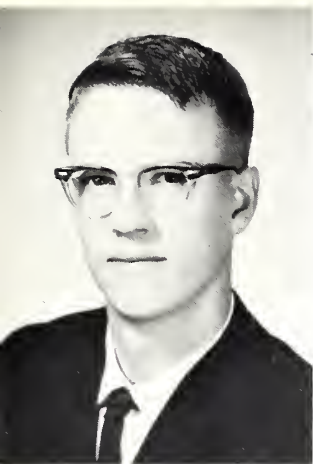

As we struggled through our years as underclassmen, we dreamed of our senior year. In actuality the events of our senior year more than met our expectations. These included senior pictures, prom, and graduation. We displayed our most attractive smiles as senior pictures were taken. Later we received our touched-up photographs.

Our senior prom was very romantic and sentimental. We were all misty-eyed as we realized that this was our last high school prom. However, the main highlight of our senior year was the long walk across the stage to receive our diplomas. This was perhaps our first realization that we had all too quickly passed through our high school years.

Ah, yes, our senior year was wonderful, but now we must bravely go forth into the adult world. We must contemplate these roads and make our choices. Regardless of the path we choose, we know that our years at "M. H. S." will always be remembered and valued.

Graduation is a milestone
Lying in the pathway of happiness.
We must travel along the rocky road
That coils around the mountain of success.

We started as little children
To climb the highest crag;
But we did not know our future plans,
And we let our footsteps lag.

As we grew into adolescence
The mountain seemed to call.
But the roadway seemed so long and steep
That we were frightened by it all.

But we felt the need for knowledge.
In our hearts we knew we could not fail
What cared we how high the mountain?
What cared we how steep the trail?

We ascended the pathway slowly,
And a few fell to the side
As we started upward and onward
To reach our goal with pride.

Overshadowed by the towering rocks,
We almost fell into the valley of despair.
Then, just before we would have quit,
We found that we were there.

The beauty from the mountain top
Gave the world a learned glow.
But though today we graduate;
Tomorrow we must go.

Always we must be climbing upward
Toward the highest mountain peak,
Reaching out with eager hearts,
The heights of knowledge we must seek.

Though the thorns of life may prick us
And the sacrifices seem too high,
We must always do our very best,
And never let our thirst for knowledge die.

Dedicated to the Senior Class
of 1965
By Viola Lane

See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil?

What you mean take my mask off?

Honest, we weren't holding hands!

I wonder if Thomas Jefferson ever hated school?

Are you sure there isn't a better way to scratch my back?

I'm going to be what? !!!

Next time I'll have a doctor do my cast.

Really Nanc, you didn't expect us to leave ourselves out, did you?

And Mighty Max will rise again!

From spades to sponges!

Look what I caught at the last fox hunt.

Okay you guys, get the right one this time!

Come and get it!

"Oh that this too, too solid flesh would melt . . ."

But I don't want a birthday party!

Really, Melvin!

Wow! I've never seen legs like that before in physics!

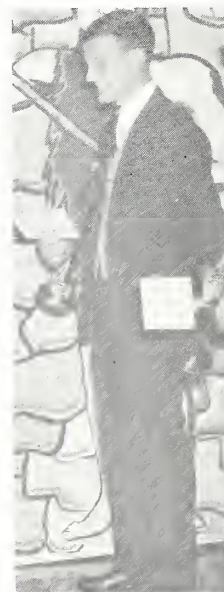

Cheers!

Gee, this would look nice on my dog.

And I suppose you hocked my tricycle.

Like they say, grin and bear it!

Mr. Parilac, these measurements would turn out better in Champaign.

There's more than one way to catch a man or a woman!

Four years become a memory filled with joy and sorrow
Four years become a gossamer leading to tomorrow.

Memories and hopes and dreams have made the years a joy
And now it's Mr. and Miss; no longer girl and boy.

Books and tests, worries and grades lead to cap and gown,
Memories of dances and Homecoming parades through town.

Football games and building floats all fall into place
In the pattern of memories and each familiar face.

The laughter and the silly pranks are all a tiny part
Of everything from four years dear to a senior's heart.

From our freshman year to the senior prom and a diploma in our hand
We have lived four years which helps us understand.

Our role in the world of atoms, missiles, and space
We as adults from Monticello now will take our place.

Student Council

The year of 1964-1965 at Monticello High School was indeed a busy one for the Student Council. The first task the Council undertook was the planning of Homecoming. The theme "Stone Age Sages," chosen by the preceding Council was carried out in the various class and organization floats. Besides organizing the parade, the council also was responsible for the bonfire, coronation, and dance.

Council members sponsored an all school drive to furnish Christmas gifts for Lincoln State School. They also sponsored Dads' night, Thanksgiving, Easter and Christmas programs, the Christmas Dance, and Moms' night.

In the fall, the Council members attended the Champaign District Student Council convention at MacArthur High School in Decatur. They also participated in the Okaw Student Council exchange program.

Throughout the year, the Council made a conscious effort to improve relations between the student and faculty. Many improvements have already been made, but the Council is constantly working toward a better M. H. S.

The marching band, consisting of 96 members, performed at all three home football games and the homecoming parade. After long, hard practice, including many step-two's, 90-degree pivots, knee lifts, and other steps, the band performed precision routines, formations, and playing features. An assistant drum major was chosen—Phil Knox—who will take over for Steve Davis next year.

The annual stage show, presented on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, 1964, "A Night on Broadway," included many songs and routines from Broadway shows. Two of the main attractions were "Charade" and "Pink Panther." The stage band, consisting of 23 members, backed the entire show.

On March 30, the band presented a Spring Concert. This concert was a success and encouraged the band to continue practice for contest. April 10, the day of the contest, the band packed its horns and headed for Millikin University in Decatur, Illinois. The selections played were "British Eighth" by Elliott, "Pageant" by Persichetti, and "First Suite in E Flat" by Holst. All four judges rated the band "superior". In the solo and ensemble contest, eight solos and four ensembles were awarded superior ratings, and four solos and six ensembles were awarded excellent ratings.

The stage band presented its fourth jazz concert, May 13, 1965. A new feature was the incorporating of Wood Wind instruments in one of the numbers.

The band played "Pomp and Circumstance" for both Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. As the feature number at graduation, the band played "Exodus" by Gold.

This year the Monticello High School chorus, under the direction of Mr. George Bachman, presented two concerts and attended the State contest. Through its presentations it achieved the respect and recognition of the school and community.

The Christmas program was introduced by the choir with "Fanfare for Christmas Day"; this set the precedent for the fine music to follow. The highlight of the program was the presentation of Benjamin Britten's "Deo Gracias" and "Wolcum Yole," both of which were well executed by the chorus. The Madrigals also presented a short program of favorite caroles.

The joy of Christmas was spread to young and old by the Madrigals. They sang familiar caroles to the schools in the Monticello Unit and the nursing homes.

As the time for the Spring Concert neared, people waited anxiously to hear what new arrangements the chorus had undertaken. They were not to be disappointed, for the chorus presented the opera "Carmen" by Bizet and the "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure.

The chorus, Madrigals, solos, and ensembles traveled to Millikin this year to attend the contest. To close its successful year, the chorus and Madrigals presented music at our graduation exercises.

The Future Teachers of America is a new addition to the organizations at Monticello High School. The Monticello Chapter is named after one of our teachers, Mr. James K. Felts. The purpose of the club is to acquaint the members with teaching as a profession. The club has 57 charter members.

Thirteen F.T.A. members attended the District F.T.A. Convention in Bismarck, Illinois, and the chapter was represented at the State F.T.A. Convention held in Decatur. On May 10, 1965, the Monticello Educational Association was the guest at a play "Two Million Heroes," presented by the F.T.A. members. Local teachers were also guests at the installation of charter members.

The advisers this year were Mr. John Nation and Mr. Glenn Fisher, guidance counsellors at Monticello High.

HOMECOMING

STONE-AGE SAGES

HOMECOMING BONFIRE

"Low tonight in the lower 40's—and it was on October 1, 1964, at 8:30 P. M. Those who had run all the way in the snake dance were weary and cast envious glances at those who had come in cars. The excitement mounted as fire-crackers were exploded.

Pep talks were given by the coaches, principal, queen candidates and attendants. Of course, this year as every year, Mr. Felts gave his poem, "And It's My Night To Holler!—Whoopee!" and hollering we did led by the peppy cheerleaders. The cheerleaders had a nice chat with Sammy Sage, the team's mascot. Sammy revealed many secrets about certain students around M. H. S. After the Pep Club presented its skit, we all burst into the rousing strains of several songs. The bonfire ended with the school's "Loyalty" and everyone went home anxiously awaiting the Homecoming game of the following night.

GAME AND HALF-TIME

The '61 Homecoming game held special significance since it was the first Homecoming game under the direction of Les Gadbury as head coach. The game was a well-fought battle between the Sages and the Arcola Purple Riders. The Riders scored twice in the first half, once on a 40 yard pass play and again on a 5 yard dive play. The Sages, toughening as the game progressed, came within good scoring distance several times in the second half but couldn't manage to push it across.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Vance Kercheval, saluted the classes of '34, '54, '59, and presented several precision drills. A new feature this year was the formation of the school shield during the salute to Monticello.

Co-captains elected by the football squad were Mike Harris and Larry Coon. Larry was the leading ground gainer for the Sages. The Sages offense checked for only 106 yards on the ground and 60 yards in the air against a very good Arcola defense. Offensive starting line-ups for the Sages were the following: ends, Ron Parsons, and Sid Harper; tackles, Mike Harris and Jim Warner; guards, Max Heacock and Ron Barnhart; center, Larry Dyson; fullback, Ken Moore; halfbacks, Larry Coon and Tom Rhoades; and quarter back, Lou Baker.

PARADE

Although the day was cloudy, cold and windy, the street-corners and sidewalks were filled with Monticello supporters who were anxiously awaiting the 1964 Homecoming parade. A tinge of excitement ran swiftly through the crowd as the parade, led by the M. H. S. marching band, approached.

The floats, decorated to the theme "Stone Age Sages", were most unique. Our Homecoming was probably the first time dinosaurs had ever walked down the streets of Monticello or the first time stone cars had been driven down them. The task of picking a winner was no small problem. However, the sophomores' gigantic pink spotted dinosaur proudly gobbled up the honor of first place. The egg that the juniors had hoped would hatch finally did on the day of the parade, and the baby dinosaur enabled the juniors to snatch second place in the class floats. The F. F. A. captured first place in the organizations with their gross purple dinosaur while the G. A. A. hammer won second place with a bang.

As the gymnasium doors were opened at 9:30 for the guests of the 1964 Homecoming, the alumni needed only one glance at the decorations to know this year's theme. A cave mouth, which served as an entrance, and the huge dinosaurs with flashing red eyes could depict only one theme—"Stone Age Sages." These true-to-life decorations were the art work of Mr. Mula and his art students.

The guests danced to the music of Bill Oetzel and his band. At 10:30 P. M., our M. C., Jim Merriman, announced the names of the lovely queen attendants and their escorts. One by one they were escorted to their places near the throne. Jim then announced the queen's court, and the audience happily watched the smiling senior candidates as they were escorted down the aisle.

Preceding the queen was Kim Scott, the flower girl, and Davey Danison, crown bearer. Then Darlene Carroll, escorted by Sid Harper, walked regally up the aisle and took her place on the throne. Larry Coon and Mike Harris, co-captains of the football team placed the crown on her head and each gave her the traditional kiss.

After the coronation, true to tradition, the queen and her attendants led the first dance. All too soon, the bewitching hour of 12:30 arrived, bringing everyone back to reality with pleasant memories of a gala evening.

CHRISTMAS DANCE

Colored crepe paper and the music of the Chessmen in the high school auditorium was the setting of the 1964 Christmas Dance. This night of dancing and fun was sponsored by the student council. To revitalize the "worn-out" or not so "hep" dancers, refreshments and chairs were provided. At twelve o'clock the fun filled evening ended and the students began their long awaited Christmas vacation.

JINGLE BELL ROCK

The Jingle Bell Rock was the theme of the annual Future Homemakers of America, Future Farmers of America dance. The usually bare auditorium was decorated with greens and cardboard "Christmacy" figures. At this dance the F.H.A. and F.F.A. crown their king and queen who have been voted on by the entire school. Last year's royalty, Connie Morfey and Larry Coon, relinquished their crowns to Suzzee Kallembach and Ed Foley. Members of the court were Marcia Kelley and Rich Deremiah, Christine Deremiah and Mike Sumner, and Norma Thomas and Jerry Brown. The King and Queen led the dance while the other couples in the audience joined in. The dance added a festive spirit to the oncoming Christmas holidays.

SPRING REVERSAL

Dogpatch U. S. A. and Monticello have much in common. First, both are towns of a nominal size. Secondly, they consist of true red-blooded Americans. Thirdly, both have a very similar, very important occasion—Dogpatch with its Sadie Hawkin's Day and Monticello with its Spring Reversal. The only difference is that the Dogpatch affair isn't quite as formal.

In Dogpatch, the girls must run, tackle, or hog-tie their guy for a date; in Monticello only an invitation is necessary. Instead of setting their guy down to hog jowls and grits, the girls of Monticello provide their men with a luscious home-cooked meal or dine in a luxurious restaurant.

After the meal a dance is held. An old barn with piles of hay would be the setting of the Dogpatch dance accompanied with a jug for refreshments. However, at Monticello, the couples enter the auditorium to a fantasy of Candyland, with decorations of bright pastel green and pink streamers of crepe paper, and huge paper peppermint sticks and little brown gingerbreadmen.

The music is also of a somewhat different quality. Whereas the County Yellers play for Dogpatch, Monticello enjoys the music of the Casuals.

Evenings in both towns have been fun, but like all good things they must come to a close. The Monticello girls as well as the Dogpatch gals now go back to their regular routines while they wait anxiously for next year's Spring Reversal and Sadie Hawkin's Day.

A charming young girl comes to live in the household of an elderly priest. She has been brought there by her aunt, scheming but faithful housekeeper. Jenny, 18, is the precise opposite of the kind of smart sophisticated young miss that puzzles and exasperates Father Moynihan. The plot is concerned with the priest's clumsy endeavors to make Jenny attractive to the boys. Studying feminine magazines and getting pointers of feminine psychology and new fashions, he is so successful that he nearly overplays his hand. A romance runs through the play, which ends in the engagement of Jenny to an attractive, somewhat older man who, trying hard to be fair and give Jenny a chance to meet eligible youngsters, almost risks losing her. But this man had been Jenny's choice from the first. Her consenting to go out with an amusing but over-enthusiastic follower of jive, has been in the line of duty, and the youth's amusing antics end up by boring her. The play is made doubly amusing by several young girls and the young boy above mentioned, all of whom manage to make Jenny "hep". Or rather, so they think, since Jenny remains to the end a simple and attractive girl, and her union with the man she loves is a proper solution to all the plots and plans of the various characters.

A girl from Millertown, U. S. A., married an Italian prince and became a legend in the village. The scene opens 18 years later with the village in excitement because the princess, widowed now, is coming back. The truth is that the prince had gone through all Ellen's money and she is a shy, lovable soul who has been keeping boarders in her palace while she saved enough to visit the old home, for which she has always been homesick, and to see again the gifted boy who was her first love. She comes in unrecognized on the preparations for a dazzling creature of fashion, is mistaken for a seamstress, and feels so acutely what a blow her simplicity will be, that she does not undeceive them. The trouble she gets into, sitting there sewing for her own welcome, makes a humorous and pathetic situation. She is even sent away under a cloud; but in the end contrives to come back in a blaze of borrowed glory and to give everybody his hour of romance.

One Act Plays

Members of all four classes combine talents to present three one-act plays. The plays were given on February 4, 1965.

The Man in the Bowler Hat

Student Director	Peggy Heidcamp
John	Jim Kratz
Mary	Rosemary Colvin
Hero	Joe Walden
Heroine	Karen Osmond
Chief Villain	Bruce Varner
Bad Man	John Hays
Man in the Bowler Hat	John Bahnke

"The man in the Bowler Hat" is a terribly exciting little affair that happens in the humdrum life of John and Mary, a tempest in a teapot, but while it lasts—well, it's high comedy, at least for the audience.

Finders Keepers

Student Director	Paula Kinzie
Mrs. Aldrid	Cynthia Landis
Mr. Aldrid	John Reed
Mrs. Hampton	Myrna Eades

The contest play, "Finders Keepers," is about Mrs. Aldrid who finds a purse containing four hundred dollars. Of course her husband thinks she intends to return the purse, but Mrs. Aldrid offers Mr. Aldrid a distressing look into her true character when she announces that she will keep it. Even when they learn that the money belongs to a very good friend, she doesn't change her mind. Mr. Aldrid changes it for her in the ensuing action which puts her in her place.

The Ugly Duckling

Student Director	Penny Clodfelter
The King	Rick McGuire
The Queen	Susan Platz
Princess Camilla	Joanne Belcher
Chancellor	Hugh Finson
Dulcibella	Jodie Culbert
Prince Simon	Jeff Clodfelter
Carlo	Jeff Dighton

In "The Ugly Duckling" it seems that arrangements have been made for Prince Simon to marry Princess Camilla. The King and Queen are rather anxious, because—let's face it—Camilla is plain! So it is decided that Dulcibella, the beautiful maid, will impersonate Camilla until the wedding. But Prince Simon has heard that Camilla is so beautiful that he considers himself rather plain beside her, so he has his man, Carlo, impersonate him, because Carlo is very handsome. Simon and Camilla meet by chance and fall in love. Each looks quite beautiful to the other, and they live quite happily ever after.
